Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

I. Claims 1-8, drawn to a CMP composition, classified in class 106, subclass 3.

II. Claims 9-14, drawn to a CMP method, classified in class 451, subclass 36.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product, such as one that does not involve an interrupting step.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and (1) have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and (2) have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

During a telephone conversation with John L. Cordani on 1/3/05 a provisional election was made with traverse to prosecute the invention of Group II, claims 9-14. Affirmation of this election must be made by applicant in replying to this Office action. Claims 1-8 are withdrawn from further consideration by the examiner, 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

> A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --
> (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over either (1) Tsai et al., (2) Doerre et al. or (3) Miyaji et al.

Tsai et al. teach in claims 1 and 6, a CMP process for semiconducting layers which involves interrupting the polishing process at least once (i.e. intermittently).

Doerre et al. teach in the abstract and column 3, lines 65-68, a CMP process for conducting layers which involves interrupting the polishing process periodically (i.e. at least once-intermittently).

Miyaji et al. teach in the abstract and column 2, line 65-column 3, line 3, that in a CMP process for semiconducting layers, it is known to interrupt the polishing process periodically (i.e. at least once-intermittently).

The claimed invention is anticipated by the references because the references teach methods which involves the same step as the claimed method (i.e. interrupting the polishing process). Although the references do not teach the last limitation of the instant claim 9 (thereby enabling improved...structure), this is a functional limitation and it is the examiners position that since the same step is defined by the references, the claimed functional limitation is inherent (102) or expected (103) because the same process inherently or is expected to provide the same results absent any evidence to the contrary. In other words, if interrupting the process enables this improvement, as claimed, and the references interrupt the process, the claimed improvement is expected because this is a function of interrupting the process, and interrupting a CMP process is known, as shown by the reference. The reason for interrupting is immaterial as long as the final results will be accomplished and it is the examiners position that said results will be accomplished by the references stating of interrupting the process absent clear and convincing evidence to the contrary.

In view of the teachings as set forth above, it is the examiners position that the references reasonably teach or suggest the limitations of the rejected claims.

"A reference is good not only for what it teaches but also for what one of ordinary skill might reasonably infer from the teachings. In re Opprecht 12 USPQ 2d 1235, 1236 (CAFC 1989); In re Bode USPQ 12; In re Lamberti 192 USPQ 278; In re Bozek 163 USPQ 545, 549 (CCPA 1969); In re Van Mater 144 USPQ 421; In re Jacoby 135 USPQ 317; In re LeGrice 133 USPQ 365; In re Preda 159 USPQ 342 (CCPA 1968)". In addition, "A reference can be used for all it realistically teaches and is not limited to the disclosure in its preferred embodiments" See In re Van Marter, 144 USPQ 421.

Evidence of unexpected results must be clear and convincing. In re Lohr 137 USPQ 548. Evidence of unexpected results must be commensurate in scope with the subject matter claimed. In re Linder 173 USPQ 356.

The references cited on the 1449 have been reviewed by the examiner and are considered to be art of interest since they are cumulative to or less than the art relied upon in the above rejections.

Any foreign language documents submitted by applicant has been considered to the extent of the short explanation of significance, English abstract or English equivalent, if appropriate.
